COACH

27 INT. HIGH SCHOOL - COACHES OFFICE - AFTERNOON

27

The office is unassuming and has pictures of players and trophies on the walls. Some pro ball posters and a bookcase.

Coach is sitting in his chair.

Tim is changed and has his bag. As he comes in he is still having a hard time carrying his gym bag.

Coach gets up as Tim enters.

COACH

Hello, Have a seat Tim.

TIM

Ok.

Tim sits. Coach sits.

TIM

Did you what to talk about the plays for next week's game?

COACH

Uh, no. Not right now.

Tim looking a bit confused.

COACH

Tim it's been 3 weeks and you don't seem to be getting any better.

TIM

(Defensively)
I am going

COACH

Let me finish Tim.

TIM

Ok.

COACH

I know you've been training hard and you were hoping for a scout, and all. Well, at this rate your going to hurt yourself so bad you wont be able to play ever again.

TIM

I really can do better.

COACH

I know. I know. I've seen you, but for now you need to take a brake. I'm cutting you from the team.

TIM

(Enraged)

WHAT?!

Tim jumps up! COACH still seated.

TIM

Coach you can't! I've earned it! I've worked so hard to get here.

COACH

(Sympathetic)

Tim sit down, Please. I know you have, but you can't perform now. You can barely throw the ball and you have almost no accuracy. I can't play you in any more games like this. I don't think it will be safe for you to play for a while.

Tim looking really upset fiddling with his bags straps.

TIM

Coach. I can do it please, don't cut me.

COACH

Tim, I have a responsibility to every player out there to help them have the best team possible and I'm sorry but that's not you. More importantly I have a responsibility to you. I can't let you get hurt and throw out your chances of collage ball. Who knows how far you could go.

TIM

But...

COACH

No buts. You are really talented, but for now you need rest. We'll check things out in a month or two. Maybe you'll be fully recovered and you can comeback.

Tim tears up he is so angry.
